Youth Apprenticeship Week 2024

Youth Apprenticeship Week (YAW) celebrated the benefits and value of Registered Apprenticeship opportunities for young people, ages 16-24. Leaders from the local, state, and national levels issued proclamations and attended career fairs, conferences, graduations, signing ceremonies, webinars, and other events to showcase that Youth Apprenticeship truly is a pathway for all young people! YAW gave stakeholders a chance to increase awareness of the life-changing career opportunities for young people that also provide a sustainable pipeline of skills and diverse talent for the jobs of today and tomorrow.

Young people celebrated YAW in New York City by telling their stories and learning about youth apprenticeship ▪ CareerWise, in collaboration with New York City Public Schools and CUNY celebrated YAW by highlighting the invaluable contributions of youth apprenticeships in shaping the future workforce. The event featured prominent speakers from Accenture, Amazon, and JPMorgan Chase who shared insights on the importance of youth apprenticeships in preparing young talent for the demands of today's economy.

YAW Highlights

Virtual Events

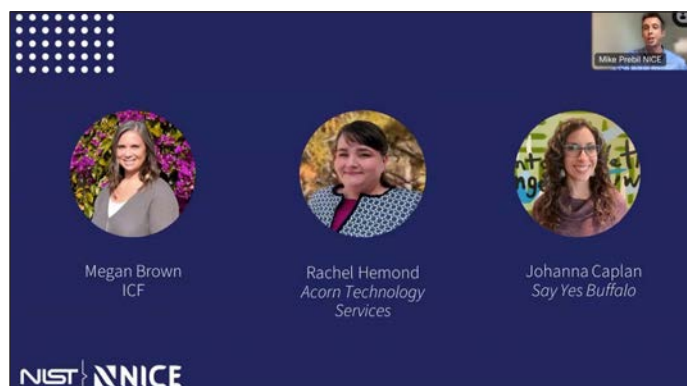

- Jobs for the Future (JFF) hosted a webinar, What to Know When Planning Your Youth Apprenticeship Program that focused on youth apprenticeship as a partnership that can connect in-school youth with employment opportunities that lead to post-secondary credentials and lasting careers. The event emphasized the critical foundations to a successful youth apprenticeship program and how to develop or expand programs.

- The National Institute of Innovation and Technology (NIIT) hosted a YAW Virtual Accelerator, celebrating innovative pathways in skills-based learning for youth to meet the growing demand for the workforce of the future. The panel addressed the common myths surrounding vocational education and emphasized the in-demand, lucrative careers that apprenticeship can lead to by connecting educational providers with industry leaders.

- The Bric Foundation along with the California Workforce Development Board hosted a virtual event, Exploring Youth Apprenticeship Pathways in Entertainment, to discuss the historic new initiative, Arts, Media & Entertainment - High Road Training Partnership (AME-HRTP), which is the first large-scale multi-year initiative that bridges training and education programs with employment and drives economic mobility for underrepresented AME workers in California's creative industries.

- NICE of the U.S. Department of Commerce National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) hosted a webinar, Equity Strategies in Youth Apprenticeship Programs and Partnerships. Youth apprenticeship delivers paid work-based learning to students still enrolled in high school, as well as recent graduates. As cybersecurity and technology stakeholders in government, industry, and the education sector explore youth apprenticeship and other youth work-based learning options, it's important to acknowledge the intricate work of partnership development and program design that is needed to deliver equitable opportunities for students of all socioeconomic backgrounds.

Youth Apprenticeship Week

Here's What We Were Up To

- John Ladd, Administrator, OA kicked off the week at the Eastern Seaboard Apprenticeship Conference (ESAC), in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and visited Luma Apprenticeship, which is working in collaboration with LUMA College for Technical Training and IBEW and which enrolls Job Corps students in their program. John also spoke at Celebrating the Future: Youth Apprenticeship, in Delaware.

- Megan Baird, Deputy Administrator, OA spoke about Setting a Collective Vision for Youth Apprenticeship: Reflecting on Early Momentum to Plan for the Future, in Washington, DC, hosted by the Urban Institute in collaboration with ICF, Jobs for the Future, and net.America. Key leaders in youth apprenticeship shared insights about how to maintain and expand momentum for youth apprenticeship nationally. Megan also spoke at The ROI of Tech Apprenticeships in Washington, DC, hosted by BuildWithin and including DC DOES.

Joey Heavner, Sasha Cooper-Morrison, Cierra Mitchell, Gemma Thomas, and Randy Copeland from the Office of Apprenticeship, celebrating YAW

- Assistant Secretary Jose Javier Rodriguez, Deputy Assistant Secretary Manny Lamarre, and Division Director Cierra Mitchell visited AAR Corp.'s facility in Miami for a Career Source Florida event and tour of The Flying Classroom. The activities focused on apprenticeship and what they mean for recruitment and retention for high-demand careers in the aviation industry.

dorchesteradvance Brian chose logistics/supply chain management for his apprenticeship. He applied, interviewed, and was hired by JAS Forwarding. The process to gain an apprenticeship position mirrors the traditional route to getting a job. He had to create a resume, be selected for the interview, and then gain the position.

Likewise, he had to apply to TTC and take the Accuplacer exam.
