DETROIT
HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Accessibility is a central tenet of the Detroit Historical Society's core values. As it works to ensure that the Detroit Historical Museum's exhibitions and programming are accessible to the broadest range of constituents possible, including individuals with disabilities, the Society has become a Certified Autism Center to better serve its neuro-diverse visitors. The Society has refined exhibition spaces and posted sensory guides to alert visitors to the level of stimulation present in each gallery. Sensory bags are available at the registration desks and family events regularly offer special hours for individuals who would benefit from a less stimulating museum experience.

The Detroit Historical Society worked with IBCCES to achieve its certification. For more than 20 years, IBCCES has been the industry leader in cognitive disorder training and certification for education, healthcare, corporate and travel & entertainment professionals around the globe. IBCCES provides evidence-based training and certification programs created in conjunction with its board of clinical and subject matter experts and autistic individuals to provide professionals with a better understanding of autism and other neurodivergencies.

This is a gallery-by-gallery guide to the sensory experiences in this museum.
